

Being in Salamanca with the Comenius Project was a wonderful experience. We met new people and we made new friends that we want to keep. We will never forget what we learnt, we will never forget the beautiful city that Salamanca is. But what we will always remember and will never leave our hearts is the people, all of them. From the teachers to all the students. It doesn't matter where they came from, they were all extraordinary. Spaniards, as we know them, are really enthusiastic and happy. They made us feel like home, they were really good hosts and always kept us entertained. Being in this project was not only about going out, on vacation as some people think. We grew up as people, we were faced with different perspectives of life, new experiences and new ideas about the world, seen by different nationalities. All the countries have so many differences, but that's what makes it interesting and unique. And even if Spain looks so close to us, we can spot the differences in so many things, such as people and school. And that's not the only thing that changes. The Portuguese people we went with actually became really good friends, even if we didn't know them, we can actually say they are special now. We are really grateful for this experience, we loved it! This is something that will leave marks forever. Now, we just hope to meet all of them in future. Comenius is much more than travelling to a foreign country. It is a way of becoming a better person with an open mind, more culture and new different friends.
